A Message from ORT America

Dear Friends,

As we move forward in 2021, we should take a moment to acknowledge our achievements and some of the highlights of 2020 that took place amidst adversity; after all, ORT has always been about succeeding in the face of adversity.

As the pandemic struck, we witnessed how thousands of students, educators and adult learners benefitted from the strength of the ORT network, as it stepped up to support them during uncertainty, illness, and isolation. With generous support from ORT America donors, we enabled ORT schools and communities to shift rapidly from in-person learning to virtual to hybrid, supported families through economic downturns, and even reimaged how we can work together to improve and expand access to learning in any environment.

We are immensely proud of ORT America's response – and immeasurably grateful to our committed ambassadors and advocates. They responded quickly and generously to meet the needs of students and their families. Along the way, many students from around the world came (virtually) into our homes to share their experiences and to let us know how they were faring during lockdowns. We are equally proud of our dedicated ORT professionals, who demonstrated creativity and perseverance adapting to a rapidly changing landscape while continuing to focus on bringing resources to ORT's beneficiaries across the globe.

Barbara Birch

Barbara Birch
President & CEO

Together, we supported some of the most important lifelines available to families – access to school and learning for their children, emotional support networks, a safe environment, connection to Jewish life and values, and financial help at moments of great need.

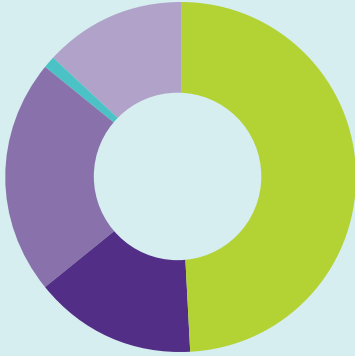

Howard Lanznar

Howard Lanznar
Chairman of the Board of Directors

While vaccinations are helping us move past Covid-19, we look forward to moving ahead with new initiatives in North America and across the network with renewed hope and enthusiasm.
